Went for a walk with my grandson to where we grew up, played, grew vegetables on our allotment and was pleasantly surprised to see this wonderful mural designed by the pupils at my old school. At last somebody has thoughtfully added the children instead of all adult entertainment. Well done to all those involved in covering up what was an unsightly mess on that wall. It looks amazing <3

Hi

Thank you to all the students who took part.

The year 1/2 classes drew a lot of buildings so the artist took the opportunity to include buildings in the mural to represent their pictures.

We have taken elements from a lot of the drawings and put them in. For example, there were a lot of rainbows, bees, butterflies, dogs, squirrels and owls, trees and flowers - so we have them all represented.

A few of the children drew statements so we tried to incorporate some of them in too.

I think most of the ideas drawn are incorporated some how.

The mural will say "designed by children from St George's at the bottom" or words to that effect.

We will make a start next week :)

Kind regards,

Hi folks,

Just to let everyone know the mural in tyldesley, designed by the children at St George's Central, is up and complete with the anti-vandal topcoat.

We haven't blasted it over Facebook, because as we know, you can please everyone, but we have had fantastic feedback from residents including organic social media posts.

There is a dog walking group that meets every day had stopped the artists and asked for some dogs to be included - which is a lovely touch.

A lot of the children in year 1 and 2 drew buildings and brick shapes so the artists added in two buildings, the school and the pelican centre. We think the children must use the pelican for swimming lessons because there were a lot of pelicans submitted - in addition to an overwhelming amount of trees, rainbows bees, flowers, buses and other animals. The artists tried to include a lot of ideas to ensure all the children can see something they drew in it.

Thanks, Mr Grogan, for getting your students involved. A few that live on the estate who walked past knew what we were doing and joyfully told their parents about it. The parents were very grateful too.

The residents I have recently spoken to all love it and love the fact it's designed by children.

Thanks, CSP / GMP for the funding!

CLLr's don't often get to bring joy, so I am really glad that this project has.

Kind regards,
